

Leadership & Management Consultant

Main location	Home based, some UK travel
Type of role	Freelance
Salary range	£280-£350 per day
Closing date	2 January 2020

Do you want to change lives by inspiring leaders and managers to be great? Do you have leadership and management development knowledge and expertise? Are you able to evaluate leadership and management development interventions from first line to senior level?

About the role:

The Institute of Leadership & Management (formerly known as ILM) is the professional membership body for leaders, managers, coaches and mentors. We believe inspirational leadership holds the key to personal fulfilment, social wellbeing and economic prosperity. By connecting like-minded people, we aim to influence and inform and be the source of pioneering thought leadership and commentary in our field.

Responding to increased demand, we are expanding our team of freelance consultants to support our accreditation services. If you have a Level 7/Masters qualification in leadership and management and have experience of designing, delivering and approving leadership development programmes. We would love to hear from you.

To apply

Please email a CV and a brief statement highlighting how your qualifications and experience meet the requirements of the role to rod.jones@InstituteLM.com

We will be conducting interviews by video conference in the first instance

We will require successful applicants to provide a professional reference from a current or recent employer.
